Paul E. Holden To Speak At Monthly Luncheon

Paul E. Holden, professor of industrial management of the Graduate School of Business at Stanford University is to be the guest speaker at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Redwood City Chamber of Commerce at Sodini's May 23. Mgr. E. W. Butler announced this week.

Following the luncheon, those in attendance are invited to tour the plant of the National Motor Bearing Co. as guests of L. A. Johnson, president of the concern. Oil seals and laminated shims produced by the concern are used in all the amphibious equipment, such as alligators, water buffalos and landing barges used in the Japanese offensive, Johnson said, and the operations of the company process of manufacture, beginning with die and tool making and ending with a review of the general office will be seen by the group making the tour.

Professor Holden, author of the book "Top Management, Organization and Control," was awarded the Gantt Medal for distinguished achievement in industrial management by the Institute of Management and Engineers and the Amer-

Mangiafico Trial Set for June 9

June 9 has been set as the date for the trial of Mrs. Josephine Mangiafico, 24, 511 North Claremont St., San Mateo, and John J. Bradley, 31, 1941 North Eldorado St., San Mateo, both of whom are charged with stealing saddles, bridles and supplies from the summer home of Martin J. Flynn, county assessor, at Scarpin Peak, north of Half Moon Bay.

Sebastian Mangiafico, 28, husband of Josephine, was sentenced early this month by Superior Court Judge Maxwell McNutt to six months in the county jail and placed on two years' probation for the same offense.

Date for the trial of Mrs. Mangiafico and Bradley was set by Judge McNutt yesterday.

Commando Show Attracts Many

Pedestrians along Broadway got tied up with the war effort Saturday morning as 625 boys and girls, in response to the Junior Chamber of Commerce' opening drive for the Junior Commandos, piling up 7331 empty coffee jars at the entrance of the Sequoia Theater to pay for admission to the show.

The Junior Commando movement, a nationwide program, was begun last week by the chamber and the Saturday morning show was for the purpose of explaining the functioning and meaning of the organization to Redwood City's children.

Thomas J. Kane, county controller, was master of ceremonies at the show and led off the program with the Junior Commando song. Captain I. D. Wright, stationed with the marines at Moffett Field, told the audience the value of salvage to the armed forces and the part that the materials collected by the Junior Commandos will play in the war in the future.

John Ryan, president of the chamber, introduced Fred Silvey and Sanford Ratliff, co-chairmen of the drive. They told of the "Battle of Newspapers and Magazines" which will be held on Saturday, May 27.

All materials turned in at the theater, coffee jars, paper bags and paper, were bundled by chamber members and stored away to be added to the papers collected in the May 27 drive.

Supervisors Hold Brief Meeting

At a brief meeting Wednesday, postponed from Tuesday, the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors cleaned up a number of minor matters on the agenda and approved several resolutions introduced by William H. Augustus, county clerk and Fred Beer, chairman of the board.

The annual report and fee for the Dumbarton Bridge, a fee which totals $800, was approved. Augustus was authorized to appoint a board to canvass the votes from yesterday's consolidated primary election.

Chairman Beer introduced two resolutions, one dealing with the tax on gasoline and another with the request of the Three Cities War Council for financial support in preparing a pamphlet for distribution to the soldiers overseas.

The board passed a resolution endorsing the proposed increase in the gasoline tax which will raise the state tax from three to four cents, the proceeds to be divided half and half between the state and the counties for use in the construction of highways after the war.

The war council's appeal for funds was approved and referred to the county manager for further investigation.

The board then adjourned until May 23, the date set for the public hearing on the new county budget.

4 Persons Hurt In Accidents

Four persons received minor injuries during the night Sunday in San Mateo County in two separate accidents.

Robert O. Engelman, 53, of South Dakota, passenger on a Pacific Greyhound bus, received treatment at Palo Alto Hospital for minor injuries received when the bus driven by Glenn E. Gooden, 38, of Salinas and an automobile driven by Mrs. M. Keitel, 27, 2085 Bayshore Hwy., Palo Alto, collided on Bayshore Hwy. 200 feet north of the Santa Clara County line. Both vehicles were going south, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Three persons were hurt in an accident on Junipero Serra Blvd. and San Pedro Ave., San Bruno, at 11:55 p.m. Sunday, the CHP reported. Fred Schmidt, 49, San Francisco, driver of one of the cars involved, was given a citation for a right-of-way violation. Julius Gelbmann, 18, San Francisco, was driver of the second car involved.

Doris Buchholz, 40, San Francisco, who was riding with Schmidt, was treated at South San Francisco Hospital. Melvin Modesti, 17, and Arthur W. Sandstrom, 19, both of San Francisco, passengers in the car driven by Gelbmann, were treated for minor injuries but were not hospitalized.

County Property Taxes Take Jump

Property taxes in San Mateo County were up slightly this year over last while the total for the state dropped a little, the California Taxpayer's Assn. disclosed this week. The 1943-44 levy total is $5,123,879 for the county as compared with $4,825,076 for 1942-43. City property taxes in the county showed a corresponding rise, totaling $1,353,891 as compared with $1,311,988 for 1943.

Taxes raised for school districts were $180,993 more than last year and special levies amounted to $253,571.

LARGE ESTATE

An amended inventory and appraisal filed here by Appraiser Bradford M. Melvin showed a valuation of $85,734.88 for the estate of John N. Chamberlin, San Mateo County resident. Chamberlin died Aug. 11, 1943.

Sequoia Students Elect Commissioners

New student officers to serve during 1944 were elected at Sequoia High School last Friday. Climaxing a week of hard campaigning, the following commissioners were elected: Stan Baker, welfare; George Jeffers, boys' activities; Anne Potter, girls' activities; Paul Kent, boys' athletics; Peggy Harrison, girls' athletics; Ruth Dimick, publications; Eleanor Tonnerson, publicity; Eob Schultz, cultural activities; Jacqueline Logan, finance and Gerie Merrill, head yell leader.

New Bank Board Members Chosen

Peninsula Chapter, American Institute of Banking, has announced election of Henry Nissen of Redwood City and Howard Thirkell and Everett Iverson of Burlingame to the board of governors. These three will meet with five holdover members May 23 to choose chapter officers. The election was conducted by mail on nominations selected by Fred Silvey, Clifford Coppock and Thirkell, nominating committeemen.

John Bourquin Joins U.S. Marines

John H. Bourquin, owner of a jewelry store at 2316 Broadway, has enlisted in the marine corps and will report to the marine base at San Diego May 27 for his boot training, it was learned.

Bourquin, who has been in business here for five years, said that the store has been purchased by Stanley Kessinger.

Mrs. Bourquin and their two children will continue to reside at 123 Fulton St.

Sadie L. Layng Passes Away

Sadie L. Layng, sister of John E. Layng, a partner in the Layng and "Tinney Funeral Home, passed away at 11 o'clock Sunday at the Palo Alto Hospital after a short illness. Miss Layng had been in failing health recently.

Born in San Francisco, Miss Layng moved to Redwood City 31 years ago. She lived at 1120 El Camino Real.

The deceased was very active in the First Methodist Church here, serving on many church committees. She had previously worked with the Methodist Church in San Francisco. She was also a member of the Sequoia Chapter 203, Order of the Eastern Star.

Miss Layng had no relatives other than her brother in the Bay Area.

Freshmen, Kiwanians Vie in Quiz Contest

Members of the freshman class at Sequoia High School put members of the Redwood City Kiwanis Club through their mental paces when the two groups met in a quiz program scheduled for the regular meeting of the club Wednesday at noon at Sodini's. The posers will be taken from material in the current issue of the Readers Digest.

SUFFER INJURIES

Sam Kligerman, 45, San Francisco, received minor injuries at 5:25 p.m. Monday when the car he was driving and one driven by Dolly L. Bonetti, 37, San Francisco, collided on Bayshore Hwy. at Brisbane. It was a read-end collision, the California Highway Patrol reported.

City, County of S.F. Condemnation Suit

The City and County of San Francisco Saturday filed a condemnation suit in superior court here against the County of San Mateo, City of San Bruno, Mills Estate, Inc., and Avansino, Mortensen & Co.

The eminent domain complaint was filed following action by the San Francisco supervisors on May 3, with the approval of Mayor Roger D. Lapham.

Included in the condemned land are two parcels from Sneath Ln. near San Bruno to the Huntington Park subdivision. The strip of land is 60-feet wide, to be used in the construction of a series of aqueduct pipe lines to convey water from reservoirs in this county to San Francisco.

WE CLOSE AT 8 O'CLOCK EVERY EVENING

OF COURSE NOT. This city, or any community, could not exist long without schools. Education is the birthright of every American, and our public schools are part of the very foundation of democracy.

The teachers of this community are devoting their lives to the work of education. These instructors, the school administrators and the local, county and state school boards deserve much of the credit for the ability of our young men and women to face the world and carve out successful careers. Our public school system is the finest in the world. It is one of the things that we are fighting today to maintain.

Highway transportation is also one of the vital factors in American progress. It makes our nation one great community. You could as well picture this city without schools as without automobiles, trucks and buses. Many schools, of course, depend to a large extent on buses for transportation of students.

Greyhound is part of this community and its progress. We are helping to maintain its essential wartime connections with other communities throughout the nation. And we are looking ahead to peace when we can again set new high standards of highway transportation.

Cars Collide On Middlefield

A coupe driven by Hudson J. Ryan, 31, 654 Everett St., Palo Alto, was badly dented Wednesday after a sedan driven by Frank Barker, 21, 385 Sherman Ave., Palo Alto, struck it, causing it to leave the road.

Both cars were going north on Middlefield, according to J. E. Farrell, Atherton police chief. Mr. Barker was passing the other vehicle at the intersection of Encinal Ave. when a mechanical difficulty caused his car to swerve out of control, striking Mr. Ryan's car.

The lighter automobile left the pavement, sheered off a small oak tree, striking a brick wall and coming to rest as it collided head-on with an electric light pole.

Only damage to the sedan was a dented right rear fender. Neither driver was injured, according to police reports.

COMMUTERS: Martha Brand Honorary Life Member

BY JOE CABOSE

We commuters, although deprived of voice in the actual decision, have a tremendous stake in the outcome of Proposition No. 1 in tomorrow's San Francisco municipal election. This proposition offers the people an opportunity to purchase the Market Street Ry. on a pay-as-you-go, no-increase-in-tax-rate basis, thus co-ordinating and modernizing the city's archaic, broken-down transport system.

Mayor Roger Lapham, himself a transportation expert, has made this his first major objective in his avowed task of riding San Francisco of its barnacles and bringing it up-to-date with other progressive American cities. If Proposition No. 1 fails of passage it will be a crushing blow to the "Fighting Mayor," who has campaigned day and night and shouted himself hoarse over the radio and from public forums.

The campaign has become so personalized around Mayor Lapham that if the voters should reject the purchase plan it will be virtually a repudiation of the whole administration effort; and, as we see it, Lapham might then just as well resign. And if the people who elected him should be too stupid to take his judgment and leadership on such an important question, who could blame him?

This proposition is vital to every person living on the Peninsula. We commuters pay just as much carefare as do San Franciscans. Therefore we have a vested interest in determining what the service shall be, even if we are not permitted to express ourselves at the polls. We all have friends and business associates who DO vote in San Francisco. So let's get after them bright and early tomorrow morning and urge them to go to the polls and vote right!—Namely, a YES vote on Proposition No. 1!

The Commuters made history last Thursday night at their annual meeting and election of officers. Close to sixty members were present, which set a new record for attendance, and the rules were suspended to permit election of the nominating committee's new slate of officers by acclamation. The original printed ballots were discarded following the untimely passing of John Brand, who had been nominated for the presidency.

The revised list of candidates, subsequently elected, follows: President, Stanley Perkins; vice president, Clarence Brize; secretary, W. J. McKeegan (incumbent); treasurer, Albert Armitage; sergeant-at-arms, Bradley ("Duke") Martin and William Curran; directors, Claude Gerdes, Eugene Hoffmann, Joseph McClellan, Albert Morgan Jr., Lucien Reiss and Richard Sudeen.

The members paid silent tribute to the memory of their late vice president, and then elected his widow, Martha, an honorary life member in the Commuters Club and charged the secretary with the responsibility of seeing to it that she is invited to all functions open to wives of members. The secretary was instructed also to remember her with a Mothers' Day floral tribute.

Joe McClellan came through as usual with top flight talent for the speaker's table, producing not one but two interesting talks. Both were officers and patients from Dible Hospital, fresh from the wars in the Pacific. Capt. Albert Pence, infantry officer, said he has amazed the medical profession by walking around when, by all the rules of the games, he should be "six feet under." He said during the moping up in the Marshalls he was shot through the heart and lungs with a rifle bullet, which "made me so mad, I refused to die." He fought through the Aleutian campaign before going to the South Pacific, was wounded in the right hand and hip in addition to being shot through the heart and lungs; wears the purple heart and other decorations, has six brothers, all in the service, and is quite a chunk of man, take it from us.

The second part of this double feature was another young infantry officer, 1st Lt. Ira Yerman, who had seen quite as much action as Captain Pence, but who received not a scratch in battle, and then, while on practice maneuvers, injured a leg so badly he had to be sent home for hospitalization. Yerman told of hand to hand combat with the Japs in a manner that made your blood run cold. Incidentally, both stressed the part blood plasma is playing in saving lives. Captain Pence said he would have been "six feet under" if some 30 pints of blood had not been immediately available to him. Think that over, you robust people who haven't yet been to the blood bank!

We were watering the front lawn the other evening when a yaller cat scooted across our starboard bow and headed toward Curran's house. Hot in pursuit was a cute little girl, age about four, in a sun suit. She caught the cat at the curb, just as Bill came out on the front porch, apparently to look for the pet. "I'm taking my kitty home," explained the little tyke, without embarrassment. "But look, honey," said Bill, "I think you have our cat." "Oh no, Mister," smiled the little girl, "I fink your cat died."

Sharon then came to Bill's rescue and tactfully retrieved her pet without hurt to the tiny tot's feelings. We do hope, if the yaller cat ever raises a family that one of the ba-

War Council Continues Testing

Swamped with requests, the Redwood City War Council last week had to continue its testing of pressure cookers over until Friday, Mrs. S. S. Mayo, chairman of the food committee reported.

This service, open to all housewives, is conducted by Kenneth Van Gundy and his assistants from the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. every Thursday morning from 9 to 12 o'clock at the Red Cross Canteen, on Jefferson Ave. near Broadway. Mrs. E. R. Fox is the canteen representative.

No preliminary registration is necessary and all pressure cooker owners are invited to avail themselves of this opportunity to have their equipment checked before the beginning of the canning season.

bies may go to the chubby little four-year-old down the street.

Tom Giannini just phoned to say that Mrs. Warren Welch's USO committee, rotated monthly from among commuter wives, stood a special Mother's Day watch at the local USO clubrooms Sunday. Those who served yesterday were Mesdames Ray Cereghino, Lucien Reiss, Ross Winchester and Lou Winkewer.

This makes two shifts a month that commuter wives are now committed to. Our ladies are to be commended for their unselfish devotion to a most worthy cause.

Sailors Steal Car; Land in Jail

Two sailors, stationed in San Francisco, were picked up in Mountain View at 8:30 Saturday night, one half hour after they had stolen a car at 700 El Camino Real near the Redwood Diner.

The two, Raymond Conklin and John Spillback, took a 1941 Dodge belonging to Erollo Gorlin, 259 Jeter St., around 8 o'clock and fled down El Camino Real. Mountain View police picked them up as they neared that town. They were booked at the jail on a charge of grand theft.

Four Newspapers Bid for Tax List

Only four of San Mateo County's newspapers answered the county purchasing agent's call for bids this week to publish the county delinquent tax list. Low bidder was the San Bruno Herald at 72-cents per inch for three publications. The San Mateo Times and Burlingame Advance each bid $1.40 per inch for the three insertions and the Redwood City Tribune bid $2.

County Tax Collector Ralph MacArthur said he would award the bid Wednesday.

A freight train now performs twice as much work per hour as it did 20 years ago.

1200 Scouts To Attend Camporee

More than 1200 Boy Scouts will rededicate themselves to serve the nation in ceremonies this weekend at the 1944 San Mateo County Council Annual Camporee at Flood Park, Atherton.

Under the leadership of J. V. Christie, general chairman, the scouts will mass in a hollow square in the middle of their camp covering more than three acres of ground and pledge themselves anew to uphold their slogan "Strong for America." Hundreds of parents and friends will visit the encampment on Saturday and Sunday.

Special features of the camporee will be knot tying contest for all scouts—water boiling, more signaling, semaphore signaling, compass, first aid, scout pace, judging and observation for second and first class scouts and scouts above first class. Message relay and undressing relay for all scouts and flag questions for tenderfoot scouts only.

Prominent scout officials will inspect the camp on Sunday afternoon, said Scout Executive Barrer. Those in charge of the assignments and inspection are co-chairmen with Mr. Christie will be John Linden, A. E. Morgan, Dean Borba, Bert Werder, Dr. M. Harris, Glenn Thomas, Father John Duryea, W. P. Stevens, Ralph Brill, George Cook the K.D.s and Troop 153.

Troop 104, under the supervision of Scoutmaster Lu Allen held a regular meeting with 18 in attendance—the Wolf Patrol and the Fox Patrol held meetings prior to the regular troop meeting—the boys are planning active participation in the camporee over the coming weekend at Flood Park.

Scouts Newell Whitford and Michael Stephens attained their tenderfoot rank. Ernest Hamilton and Richard DeVillalba advanced to the second class rank. Troop 120 under Scoutmaster H. S. Stout held an inspection meeting with 15 in attendance at which time the boys cleaned and inspected their Camporee equipment. The troop is getting ready for the camporee this week end.

Troop 143, under Scoutmaster Hamilton Day held a regular meeting at which time the coming camp was discussed. Jim Kearns attained his tenderfoot ranking. There were 21 present at the meeting.

Hydroponic Gardening Would Be Practical Under Postwar Electrical Idea

BY HOLLY LANGLEY

"A cottage small, by a waterfall." Wouldn't those lines from a popular lyric fit a dream for after the war. Naturally, most of us aren't putting much emphasis on that "small" part, but just think of what you could do with that waterfall!

First thing would be to put in a wheel and turbine to generate power. And from a greenhouser's point of view, with a water wheel, possibilities would be infinite. Think of the plastics, glass bricks, cheap glass plate, free lights for the glasshouse during short winter days, free heat, and free current to run the motors to run all the gadgets we're told will be available. Hydroponic gardening (soilless culture—remember?) would certainly be practical in such an arrangement. And with free-wheeling fans and air conditioning, one could enjoy tropical fruits and vegetables the year around! Just about every factor could be controlled. Including pests. With air conditioning, pests could be fumigated out of the glass house at the start, and then kept out quite easily.

Of course, the cottage small would necessarily be sound-proofed. With so many ways to use electricity in the postwar dream, it would take a powerful waterfall to generate enough juice, and the noise would surely induce insomnia, unless one could sleep in a vacuum-lined chamber.

And that mention of hydroponics brings up a point. Many gardeners with an experimental or inquisitive turn of mind have shown a continued interest in soilless culture. With Summer about here, vegetables can be grown in nutrient solutions in tanks and trays out of doors. But I wouldn't advise it unless you can provide mechanical automatic circulation of the nutrient solution, and some easy method of aerating the solution almost constantly.

Unless you can provide aeration to the solution, you get about the same affect on the growing system that you do in a garden with poor drainage, where the roots must try to make out in standing water, it doesn't work out in either case. But it's fun to dream. Given free electricity and with a small investment, one could grow food successfully far underground. Where space is no factor—and with popular aviation we can all spread out more after the war—where there's plenty of room, there's no need to go underground to grow a garden. Still, the thought is intriguing, and the knowledge it's possible is comforting.

This is a sudden switch, but quite a coincidence. Remember a few weeks ago I told about a marine at Moffett Field getting a transfer to Terminal Island so he could escape Sgt. "Farmer John" and the steady victory garden work? I got that story in the smoking room of the Pullman going south.

Last week I was driving a short way along the highway and picked up a marine near Moffett Field. We got to talking and soon he was telling how he had been given credit for a good job in which he'd had no part.

It seems he's connected with the public relations and press office of the marines. And when the story appeared in this column about marines leaving Moffett Field because they were kept working in the garden all the time, this particular marine was given credit for handing the story out. It seems both commissioned and non-com-

Julia says:
Let's enjoy fresh spring vegetables

NOW THAT fresh vegetables are coming on the market in good quantity again, it's a good time to explore some of the possibilities of using them in fresh and lively ways.

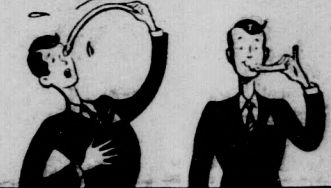

First, though, here are some general suggestions that are worthy of a second glance:

Rinse freshly-bought vegetables in cold water (don't soak them); wrap in damp cloth or replace in paper bag or put in vegetable compartment; and store in refrigerator.

If they must be peeled, don't peel them till the last minute.

Cook them quickly in the least possible amount of water (exceptions are spinach and strong-flavored vegetables like cabbage, which are best cooked in plenty of water, uncovered).

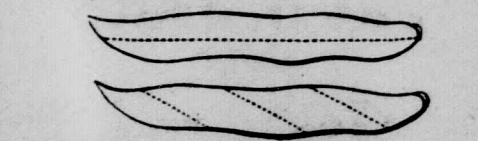

To hold the bright color in red cabbage and beets, add ½ tsp. vinegar or lemon juice for each cup of shredded vegetable, to the boiling water.

IT'S ALL right to eat stubby, firm asparagus right from your fingers! But if it's long and droopy, better use a fork and cut it on the plate!

CALICO VEGETABLE HASH
Combine 1 cup each of diced cooked turnips, carrots, beets and potatoes; moisten with 4 tbsps. meat stock or water enriched with a beef cube. Melt 3 tbsps. shortening in hot frying pan; spread the vegetables evenly over the pan's surface and cover. Reduce heat and cook slowly 15 to 20 minutes or until brown crust is formed. Loosen hash from pan, fold in half, turn out on hot platter and serve. Serves 6.

SPINACH PANCAKES
Drain and chop 2 cups cooked spinach very fine and add 1 cup dry bread crumbs, 1 tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper and 4 eggs slightly beaten. Drop by tablespoonfuls into a hot greased frying pan and fry until brown, turning once. Serve with highly seasoned tomato sauce. Serves 6.

STRING beans, with strings removed, will taste better if you slit down the middle or at an angle, before cooking them!

ASPARAGUS SHORTCAKE
Bake corn bread with diced crisp bacon added to the batter. Cut into 3-inch squares, split, and toast. Arrange asparagus stalks between layers of shortcake. Serve with cheese sauce garnished with finely sieved hard-cooked egg yolks.

Speaking of vegetables, don't forget that this week's issue of The Family Circle Magazine has the second in my series of up-to-the-minute articles on home canning. This one discusses strawberries, asparagus and rhubarb. Get your free copy at Safeway!

8-in Smokestack By Jim Asbestos

THIS IS STILL A ONE-MAN WAR—EACH OF US BEING THE ONE MAN

Let's Fasten This in Our Fedoras

"The only thing needed for us to win the European war in 1944 is for every man and woman, all the way from the front line to the remotest hamlet,—to do his or her full duty."—General Eisenhower.

Where There's Smoke, There's—

A smoke screen has hidden the operations of a busy war plant in the middle west, but lately the secrecy has been lifted. The plant has been making "Smoke Dragons," which are generators to belch smoke screens on the war front. They've been credited with reducing effectiveness of enemy sharpshooters by 85 per cent.

Johns-Manville is glad to have furnished J-M High Temperature Insulation which is needed to withstand the fiery-heat heat built up within the Dragons' generators.

Creed of Management

Back in 1938 Lewis H. Brown, president of J-M, proposed a creed of management containing several points which today would make a mighty good post-war policy. Here is point No. 1: "We believe that we should constantly seek to provide better values at lower costs so that more of our people can enjoy more of the world's goods." That alone would serve as a pretty good peace-and-prosperity program, wouldn't it?

BETTER GOODS—LOWER PRICES—MORE CUSTOMERS

Why, there is prosperity in a nutshell!

Leaders Come Pretty Reasonable

You cannot help small men by tearing down big men. That would be like improving an army by shooting all the officers.

Leaders are necessary. And the cost of leadership in business is smaller than most folks think. Though many people think it would solve all our economic problems in normal times, to divide the income of leaders among the whole population, here are the facts:

If the income, after taxes, of the 131,823 people who earned $10,000 or more in 1934 had been divided among the 48,698,097 others then gainfully employed, it would have netted these others a raise of 40 cents a week. A pretty small price to pay for the help that leaders give the rest of us.

Little Bits of J-M History

The first asbestos used by Johns-Manville was from deposits discovered on farms on Staten Island, N. Y. It was not unusual to see a line of five or ten farm wagons, loaded with asbestos, drawn up before J-M headquarters, then at 87 Maiden Lane, New York City.

The company's first real factory was set up in a temporary building of corrugated iron in Long Island City. It was on filled-in marshy ground, and one employee said they had to jack up the corners of the building every morning.

There was not enough business to keep a factory force regularly employed, and it was the custom to pick up help when orders came in, and shut up shop when they didn't.
